meal and led the group in semi-coherent Norwegian drinking songs.

Today (Saturday) Manfred Franke and Bob Fidler left for Michigan, and the Barbers departed shortly thereafter. Tim and I worked on taking apart our camp. Many other teams left on Friday night, and most of the others left today. It's always a little bit sad to see the "village" that develops during a competition dissolve. Today we also watched the organizers begin to get the airfield back to normal and ready for their next Norwegian competition which begins tomorrow. No rest for these hard working people!

Luckily, it never really gets dark here, so they can just keep on working through the night. I would like to thank John Eirik Laupsa, the director of the National Gliding Center, for making our stay here comfortable and for looking after us. Kudos to the whole volunteer corps, who really have put in long hours - most of them go to bed after I do, and that is saying something.

In spite of our bad luck - OK, incredibly bad luck - with the weather, I would highly recommend a visit here. Normally the conditions really are superb at this time of year, and the mountain flying that Tim experienced during the Norwegian Nationals was but a taste of the interesting soaring that Norway offers.

Tomorrow Tim and I will leave Norway and head off to Germany to return our unique Libelle to its owners, then home to Dallas.

Thanks to everyone who wrote or told me that they enjoyed these web reports. I enjoyed doing them. It has been an honor to represent the US as Team Captain/Manager. Thanks again to the U. S. Team Committee, to John Seaborn for web tutoring, and to everyone who contributes to the U.S. Team with funds or with time.

Country and Contest Site

Elverum/Starmoen, the home of the 3rd Club Class World Gliding Championships, is located 147 km northeast from the centre of Oslo, the Capital of Norway. Gliding over the Norwegian countryside is an incredible experience. Located at 60 degrees north latitude, the Norwegian summer brings long hours of daylight, allowing gliding under the "midnight sun" (even if you have to go 700 km to the north to see the sun at midnight proper). The thermals start early in the morning, and often last until 20:00 hrs. The thermal conditions are good with a generally high cloud bases. More information on the weather conditions can be found on the weather page. Visibility of 50 to 100 km and above is not unusual on sunny days. The conditions are often perfect for long distance flights. The airspace is generally free of restrictions, with only the Oslo / Gardermoen TMA to the south-west of the task area.
